Spreading Ripples

In this section of the news we regularly report new uses of the EHV. Creators of works can use up to 1000 verses of the EHV per work without permission, and we are generous in giving permission for works that go beyond this. We are especially thinking of works like commentaries, devotional books, catechisms, lectionaries, Bible history books, and Bible classes. But we also give permission for works that use much less text: musical compositions, artworks, greetings cards, etc. To our knowledge, this is the first time we have given permission for a game. Bibordle, a game like Wordle, uses the EHV as its default translation with the KJV as an alternate. You can check it out by searching Bibordle or using this link: <https://bibordle.web.app> The game chooses a random word from the EHV to guess, and then at the end it displays a random verse with that word in it, whether or not the player solves the puzzle.

THIS MONTH'S PICTURES

This month we will take a break from our usual presentation of pictures from the EHV Study Bible to present coffins from the land of Israel, which illustrate this month's article on coffins.

Coffin of Ahiiram, a Phoenician king from about 850 BC

Coffin of Herod Found at the Herodion

Why Should I Use the EHV?

This update from our book *Introducing the EHV* gives the main reasons to use the EHV. If you are already using it, please review the article and share it with others.

FAQ 84: Coffins in Israel

Although Israelites usually buried people without coffins, there are numerous examples of coffins from the land of Israel. Were any of them used by Israelites? A big part of the problem is defining the word coffin.

OFFERINGS TO THE WARTBURG PROJECT

Audio Bible

We have plans underway to produce an audio version of the EHV for free distribution. If you would like to help with the production costs of this Bible, please designate your gift for Audio EHV.

Gifts for Africa and Asia

We have plans underway to provide gift copies of EHV computer study Bibles to teachers in Africa and Asia. Each copy costs about $20 depending on currency exchange rates and local taxes. If your offering is intended to be used entirely for that purpose, please note that it is for AACB (Africa Asia Computer Bibles).

Undesignated

If you would like to support the modest ongoing overhead costs of the Wartburg Project, such as maintaining our websites; trademark renewals; and updates of translations, you may send offerings to the address below.
